Improvements at Doswell,
Dr. Page offered a resolution providing for the improvement of passenger accommodations at Doswell, the junction point of the Chesapenke and Ohio and Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Rallroads. He asked that the two roads co-operate in the building of a new and sufficiently commodious station there.
Judge Leake informed the stockholders that the two roads had already agreed to do this, and that plans were already prepared therefor, but the execution of these had been delayed by the question of a crossing there. It had finally been Improvements at Doswell, ility to accident, r. John Skelton Williams, expressed his proference for an overhead creasing and opposed the grade crossing. Mr. Page, however, being satisfied with the situation as ascertained, withdrew his resolution, and the discussion ended.

Election of Officers. Election of Officers, was reached, Judge Leake, the retiring president, nominated Mr. White, the choice of the conference, for president, and asked that his selection be made unanimous.

This request was rendered impossible by reason of the unwillingness of Judge Holladay, one of the State's proces, to agree to it. He did not state his reasons, declaring that he would assign them in his report to the State Corporation Commission, which appointed him. He had
